

WHY

should Illinois citizens
pay more in taxes
while credit unions
receive exemptions
to the tune of millions of dollars
each year

Large credit unions – the ones that have grown beyond the definition of what credit unions were created to be – still live in a tax-free environment. The rest of us are bearing the brunt of Illinois' increased personal and corporate business taxes expected to generate $6.8 billion for state coffers.

Really makes you think, doesn't it?
